About the Workshop

Technology is advancing at a dizzying pace and is becoming increasingly central to the provision of psychological services. From portable devices to digital records to interjurisdictional practice to mental health apps, technology has brought remarkable benefits to our work; and at the same time created an increasingly complex set of ethical, legal, and regulatory challenges. In this rapidly evolving environment, the need to maintain an active risk management strategy is perhaps even more central than ever.

This workshop is a next-generation discussion of digital world issues. After a brief introduction describing The Trust Risk Management Philosophy and Strategy, this workshop will provide a review and update on the ethical, legal, and risk management dimensions of technology. We will focus broadly on these issues related to digital record keeping, telepsychology, digital communications, and social media. The workshop is applicable to all sites where health services are provided.

Learning Objectives

Participants will be able to:

- Summarize The Trust's Risk Management Philosophy, including strategies for identifying high risk situations and managing professional practice risks.
- Develop and review strategies for managing digital record keeping challenges.
- Describe risks regarding emerging approaches to telepsychology practice.
- Identify strategies for managing online and social media risks.

THE PRESENTER

Amanda D. Zelechowski, Ph.D., J.D.

Dr. Zelechowski received her B.A. from the University of Notre Dame, her M.S. and Ph.D. from Drexel University, and her J.D. from Villanova University School of Law. She completed a postdoctoral fellowship at The Trauma Center at Justice Resource Institute (Brookline, MA) and is board certified in Clinical Child and Adolescent Psychology. She has worked clinically with adults, children, and families in inpatient, outpatient, and forensic settings.

Dr. Zelechowski is currently Assistant Professor of Psychology at Valparaiso University, where she also serves as coordinator of the Dual Degree Graduate Programs in Law and Psychology. She teaches a wide variety of courses, including ethics and professional development in psychology, and provides clinical supervision to graduate students. Her primary research interests include forensic and mental health assessment, at-risk delinquent, and traumatized youth, child custody and child welfare, and the intersection of psychology, law and public policy. She also conducts research related to best practices in teaching and training in the areas of psychology, laws, and trauma. In addition to her teaching and research interests, Dr. Zelchoski conducts forensic and psychological evaluations and has provided training and consultation to numerous mental health law enforcement, and correctional agencies.
