About the Webinar:

The PSYPACT webinar will cover the need and rationale for allowing psychologists to use electronic communications inter- jurisdictionally to provide tele- psychological services ethically and legally to patients. It will briefly examine the APA Guidelines on Telepsychology with particular focus on competency, informed consent and confidentiality and security of the data. The presentation will explore the obstacles for interjurisdictional telepsychology practice and offer solutions for the ethical and legal interjurisdictional practice. It will also provide a discussion of the Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact, PSYPACT and its impact for Illinois psychologists.

By taking this webinar psychologists will become familiar with ethical and legal ways to provide inter jurisdictional tele-psychological services to patients & you will; become familiar with the Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact (PSYPACT, and how psychologists can apply to practice under the authority of PSYPACT.

Janet Orwig, MBA, CAE in her position with the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB) serves as the Associate Executive Officer for Member Services and PSYPACT Executive Director.
